

Miya Bernson-Leung, MD, EdM is the program director of the Child Neurology Residency Training Program at Boston Children's Hospital. She earned her MD at Harvard Medical School and completed her pediatrics and child neurology residencies at Boston Children's Hospital, followed by fellowships there in pediatric stroke and cerebrovascular disorders and in medical education. She received her Master's in Education at Harvard Graduate School of Education as a Zuckerman Fellow. In addition to her GME role, she is also the Associate Medical Director of CME at Boston Children's and director of the Michael J. Bresnan Child Neurology Course. She serves on the Boston Children's Hospital Interprofessional Continuing Education Committee and is a Senior Member of the Boston Children's Hospital Academy for Teaching and Educational Innovation and Scholarship.