

Rebecca E. Walker is the Director of Sponsored Programs at the Seattle Institute for Biomedical and Clinical Research (SIBCR), which supports research and education endeavors at the VA Puget Sound Health Care System and Mann-Grandstaff VA Medical Center (www.sibcr.org). SIBCR is among the largest VA non-profits and it manages research funding from NIH, DoD, private foundations, and clinical trial agreements with industry. Prior to her current role, she administered a diverse portfolio of VA research and education projects as an SIBCR Grants & Contracts Manager. Rebecca also has experience negotiating research and consultancy agreements as a Contracts Officer at the University of Bristol's Research and Enterprise Development division (<https://www.bristol.ac.uk/research/>). Rebecca holds a Master's degree in public administration from the University of Washington and a Bachelor's degree in history from Yale University.