

Dr. Emily Pharr is Associate Professor of Neurology and Residency Program Director at Wake Forest Baptist Health who specializes in the treatment of Multiple Sclerosis. She studied Political Science at Northwestern University and received her bachelor's degree at The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where she also received a Masters degree in Nutritional Biochemistry. She received her medical degree at Wake Forest University School of Medicine. She went on to complete a Residency in Neurology and a Fellowship in Neuro-Immunology at Wake Forest University. She is the Director of the Comprehensive Multiple Sclerosis Center at Wake Forest Baptist Health.