

Tracey A. Milligan, M.D., M.S., FAAN, FANA

Tracey A. Milligan is an epileptologist and neurologist with over 20 years' experience, but only became involved in social media during the COVID-19 pandemic. She received her medical degree from Albert Einstein College of Medicine and completed her residency training in neurology at Massachusetts General and Brigham and Women's Hospitals. She is fellowship trained in clinical neurophysiology and epilepsy at Brigham and Women's Hospital. She is currently visiting professor of neurology at Harvard Medical School and professor and Chair of Neurology at New York Medical College and Director of Neurology at Westchester Medical Center. She has a long-standing interest in medical education and uses social media as a platform for direct education and marketing of educational programs.